Readings in Wesley
DO 629

Kenneth J. Collins, Professor

1. Course Description and Objectives:

The course will explore the theology of John Wesley ranging from the doctrine of God to eschatology. Special attention will be paid to the doctrine of God, Christology, pneumatology, as well as to Wesley's views on providence, grace, and human responsibility. The course will proceed in a Socratic and dialogical manner as it entertains an array of possible meanings of selected texts. This process, intense in many ways, should enhance the ability of students not only to understand the thought of Wesley in greater depth in its eighteenth-century context, but also to think historically and critically. Moreover, the course will be attentive to current scholarly interpretations of Wesley's theology and will assess such judgments in light of the primary evidence. All the tasks of the course, then, will concern exploring Wesley's theology in terms of its relevance for twentieth-century theology and ministry.

2. General Goals

Upon completion of the course successful students will be able to do all of the following:

- 1) Identify the major elements in Wesley's theology especially in terms of the broad motif of "responsible grace."
- 2) Evidence an awareness of historiographical concerns in the interpretation of Wesley's theology especially with respect to narrow, limited or unfair (biased) perspectives
- 3) Explore the interplay between religion and culture in terms of the intellectual developments (philosophical and theological) of the eighteenth century as reflected in Wesley's writings.
- 4) Display an extensive knowledge of the theological distinctions and nuances employed by Wesley in crafting an articulate and well-developed theology, especially in the areas of justification, the new birth, and entire sanctification.
- 5) Demonstrate an understanding of the continuing significance of Wesleyan theology today especially for the broader ecumenical community.
- 6) Conceive one's calling as a minister of the gospel in light of the Methodist theology and practice.
- 7) Articulate the relevance of Wesleyan theology for effective pastoral ministry today

3. Texts:

Required:

Thomas Jackson, ed., The Works of Rev. John Wesley, 14 vols. (London: Wesleyan Methodist Book Room, 1829-1831), Reprinted Grand Rapids, Michigan: Baker Book House, 1978.

Collins, Kenneth J. The Scripture Way of Salvation: The Heart of John Wesley's Theology (Nashville: Abingdon Press, 1997)

---. A Real Christian: The Life of John Wesley (Nashville: Abingdon Press, 1999).

4. Course Procedures

Competency in this course will consist in satisfying the following criteria:

A. It is imperative that students attend class on a regular basis. Absenteeism (missing more than 2 classes) will result in grade reduction. Class participation, attendance, and completion of the assigned readings are required for course credit.

B. A reading report which indicates that students have completed all of the assigned readings is due on the last day of class.

Both clients and readers have recognized Doug's ability to present a technological value proposition in a clear and accurate style. He has practical, hands-on experience in many aspects of HPC, including hardware and software design, benchmarking, storage, GPU, cloud, and parallel computing. He is the author of Hadoop Fundamentals LiveLessons (video) from Addison-Wesley. Joseph Niemiec is a big data solutions engineer whose focus is on designing Hadoop solutions for many Fortune 1000 companies. In this position, Joseph has worked with customers to build multiple YARN applications providing a Callum: I think the Internet allows people to get their news from different places and do research. Er, but I don't think the Internet will destroy newspapers, because having something physical in your hand, for reading and turning, is important. You can write on it, you can do the crossword on it. So, the Internet can give us a lot, but I don't think it can ever replace newspapers. The AD629 can replace costly isolation amplifiers in applications that do not require galvanic isolation. The device will operate over a ± 270 V common-mode voltage range and has inputs that are protected from common-mode or differential mode transients up to ± 500 V. The AD629 has low offset, low offset drift, low gain error drift, as well as low common-mode rejection drift, and excellent CMRR over a wide frequency range. The AD629 is available in low-cost, plastic 8-lead DIP and SOIC packages. For all packages and grades, performance is guaranteed over the entire industrial temperature range Individual readers of this publication, and nonprofit libraries acting for them, are permitted to make fair use of the material, such as to copy a chapter for use in teaching or research.
