But the helm templating (I guess golang) keeps converting a "true" to boolean, but not "false", meanwhile the boolean operators consider any string as true Also, the eq fails if you compare a bool and a string, so you must convert it. The easiest is to set the value to empty string, that evaluates as false in the if <https://golang.org/pkg/text/template/#hdr-Actions>, so True Helm was written as a companion book to "True Hearth" by James Allen Chisholm, which is also recommended reading along with "True Helm". "True Helm" is divided into two parts. The first half of the book, entitled "True Helm" consists of the following chapters: Forward by Ian Read. 1. Some Background. Truesteel Helm.
