Notes

The module provides a comprehensive foundation to the wider study of marketing. It introduces students to a broad and deep examination of the basic tasks involved in the practice of marketing and the impact of new technology on this practice. The examination will test the student’s knowledge and understanding of the curriculum and his/her ability to critically analyse leading edge theory in this area.
Book Description: Principles of Marketing teaches the experience and process of actually doing marketing - not just the vocabulary. It carries five dominant themes throughout in order to expose students to marketing in today's environment: Service dominant logic, sustainability, ethics and social responsibility, global coverage, and metrics. For questions about this textbook please contact textbookuse@umn.edu. Marketing principles or principles of marketing are agreed-upon marketing ideas companies use for an effective marketing strategy. They are the principles upon which we build product promotion strategies. We can use the marketing principles for the effective promotion of either goods or services. Some companies may follow the 4Ps Strategy (or 4P Strategy). The term '4Ps' stands for product, price, place, and promotion. Some people refer to it as the 4P Marketing Matrix. Principles of Marketing - Targeting Particular Consumers. It is essential that a company bringing a product or service to market is aware of who they believe the target market to be. Without a clear target consumer in mind it will be difficult to decide upon the correct marketing strategy to implement. Some products target a specific, or niche market, while others may target multiple markets. Principles of Marketing - Branding. Branding a product in a certain way is essential for its success.
